NEW JERSEY -- Building on the overwhelming success of their beloved children's book series The Adventures of Pierre and Penny LePockets, the dynamic father-daughter duo, James-Scott Wong and Eugenie Gloria Wong, continue to captivate young readers.

After 17-year-old Eugenie's heartwarming Penny's Day on the Farm soared to international bestseller status in nine countries, James-Scott Wong now takes the spotlight with the release of the much-anticipated second book, Pierre's Promise of the Deep, launching today.

James-Scott's journey into writing is driven by a desire to leave a legacy of stories that encourage children to live with purpose and connection. Through these heartwarming tales, the father-daughter duo seeks to spark meaningful actions that go beyond words.

Pierre's Promise of the Deep will inspire children through a fantastical adventure story to embrace the integrity of keeping a promise.

"I always tell my kids that your word is your bond," said James-Scott Wong. "It's a simple truth - there is power behind the words we speak, and when we make a promise, there is a responsibility that comes with it."

About the Author

Meet James-Scott Wong — a dedicated father, husband, and friend who is passionate about nurturing meaningful relationships. While he spends his days navigating the complex world of supporting food security around the world, he believes that true fulfillment comes from the personal connections we make and the purpose we find in them.

This belief, coupled with a desire to pass on timeless values to the next generation, inspired James-Scott to co-create a children's book series with his eldest daughter, Eugenie Gloria Wong. Together, they craft stories that blend whimsical adventures with lessons about integrity, courage, and kindness—values that help unearth the innate purpose within us all.

James-Scott's journey into writing is driven by a desire to leave a legacy of stories that encourage children to live with purpose and connection.

In addition to his mission for passing on timeless values through writing, James-Scott is also passionate about conservation efforts. He serves as an Executive Board Member for the Rhino Momma Project – a nonprofit organization established to support the largest White Rhino breeding program in Namibia.

Throughout Pierre's Promise of the Deep, you will notice a pink rhino hidden on select pages to bring awareness to the Rhino Momma Project.

A portion of each book sale supports white rhino conservation in Namibia.
